The data on it now is public and has already been vetted. That website has some parts that are public and the "documents" section is one of them.

Any new data that's getting released to the public is going on <http://www2.epa.gov/goldkingmine>

Epaosc.org is for internal use by OSCs only. So, if there's data up there, and it's supposed to be public, then the EOC should be reviewing and giving to the PIO for us to post.

Thanks Lisa. It was on the homepage originally, we're getting it relinked Right – not trying to circumvent the review process but the osc website was already provided when we released the preliminary data. It was already QAQC...I just want to avoid duplicating review process if it has already been done.

Here's the link to it – under documents on epaosc.org/goldkingmine

We have a specific chain to review and post. I asked for a link on the front page to the data, which is already posted on the public facing page in the latest press release. We are still reviewing data for QAQC and I don't know if this is even the same data on the EPAOSC.org. Bottom line everything gets passed through EOC PIO and OCG before posting.

I cannot. The data people or someone in the know needs to do that.

Then can you take the data tables from it and post them on our site? Media was referred to that site for the data when it was posted. It's public. So we can just pull it and post it there.

Sorry, I forget if someone already replied to this.

Not without explicit approval. EPAOSC.org is for our responders and we generally don't link to it for public sites.

Can we link to the data tables that are on epaossc.org?
